

Exhibit B

Overview

The exhibits demonstrate that Pump.Fun knowingly facilitates and promotes the creation and trading of tokens that exploit hate speech, violence, and exploitation to generate attention and trading volume. These examples show a systematic pattern of allowing and promoting deeply problematic content:

1. Racist and Violent Content:

- Multiple tokens using racial slurs and hate speech in their names and marketing
- A token explicitly promoting threats of school shooting
- Tokens using racist imagery and slurs targeting President Obama and other minorities
- Tokens promoting violence and exploitation, including references to kidnapping and torture

2. Antisemitic Content:

- Multiple tokens promoting antisemitic conspiracy theories and Holocaust imagery
- Tokens using concentration camp imagery and Nazi propaganda
- Systematic use of antisemitic stereotypes and hate speech

3. Sexual Exploitation:

- Tokens promoting potentially non-consensual sexual content
- Content suggesting exploitation without age verification
- Livestreamed inappropriate content tied to token prices

4. Platform Promotion:

- Several tokens achieved "King of the Hill" status, meaning they were actively promoted on Pump.Fun's homepage
- The platform facilitated these tokens reaching market caps in excess of $100,000
- Technical infrastructure provided for creating, trading, and promoting this content

These examples demonstrate that rather than being isolated incidents, the promotion of harmful content is systematically enabled and incentivized by Pump.Fun's platform infrastructure and business model. The evidence shows the platform not only allows but actively promotes tokens that exploit hate speech, violence, and harmful content to drive trading volume and profits.
